Biographical Note

Donald E. (Don) Casey was born on November 6, 1924, to James Douglas Casey and Virginia Casey. Casey grew up in River Forest, Illinois, with an older brother, Jim, who trained to be a pilot in Florida during the war, and two younger brothers, Dick and John.

Casey attended Campion High School, a Jesuit boarding school in Prairie du Chein, Wisconsin. After graduation, he attended Purdue University. While attending Purdue, Casey enlisted in the United States Army Air Corps as a cadet. He was sent to the San Antonio Aviation Cadet Center in Texas to train as a navigator. Casey completed his training and graduated as a Second Lieutenant on October 23, 1943.

After his training, Casey went to Kimbolton, England, where he was assigned to a B-17, named Hells' Belle, as a part of the 379th Bomb Group (Heavy) in the 8th Air Force. Casey completed 27 missions, earning two Oak Leaf Clusters and one Air Medal Award. During his 28th mission on June 14, 1944, Casey was shot down over Hamburg, Germany.

Casey became a German prisoner of war and was sent to Stalag Luft III, located near Sagan (now Żagań, Poland). He remained there until January 27, 1945, when German guards moved the prisoners out of camp towards central Germany to avoid the Russian army. Casey and the other soldiers were interned in Moosburg until April 29, 1945, when the 14th Armored Division liberated the camp.

After the war, Casey graduated with a law degree from Dartmouth College. He became an insurance lawyer in Chicago, Illinois, at Springer, Casey & Dienstag, P.C., and had four sons.

Casey remained active among WWII veteran and POW groups. He became the editor of Contrails, a newsletter for the 379th Bomb Group, and he participated in reunions. Casey also wrote a memoir, To Fight for my Country, Sir!, chronically his war experiences. Casey regularly volunteered at the Pritzker Military Museum & Library in Chicago, Illinois.

On March 14, 2016, Donald E. Casey died at the age of 91.

Scope and Content of the Collection

The Donald E. Casey Collection includes records, correspondence, photos, and artifacts relating to Donald E. Casey's time in the United States Army Air Force and his imprisonment in Stalag Luft III during World War II.

Arrangement

The collection arrived in no particular order. Staff has arranged the collection by category and chronologically. The collection consists of five series:

Series One: Military Service, 1942-1993, u.d.

Series one includes materials from Donald E. Casey's time served as a Navigator as part of the 379th Bomb Group (Heavy) in the 8th Air Force and also as a prisoner of war at Stalag Luft III during World War II. It includes personal papers, military documents, ephemera from when Casey was a prisoner of war, and newspaper clippings ranging from the war to post-war times.

Series Two: Post-War, 1945-2013, u.d.

Series two includes materials from Donald E. Casey's time after his honorable discharge from the military. This series includes materials for ex-prisoner of war reunions, ephemera from military museums and monuments, cartoons and research on Stalag Luft III, and miscellaneous ephemera from Casey's life.

Series Three: Correspondence, 1945-2013, u.d.

Series three includes Casey's correspondence with family and friends during and after the war. This series also includes correspondence Casey's parents had with family and friends while Casey was a prisoner of war.

Series Four: Photographs 1943-2000, u.d.

Series four includes photographs of Casey during and after the war. This series includes photographs from Casey's time in the military, photos of the POW camp Casey was imprisoned at, and of Casey's life post-war.

Series Five: Publications, 1944-2011, u.d.

Series five includes newsletters, books, and short stories written post-war by Casey and others. This series includes Contrail, a 379th Bombardment Group newsletter that Casey was the editor of for years. Also included in this series are drafts of Casey's stories that eventually turned into his book, and stories of comrades and friends.

Series Six: Oversize Items, 1945-2015, u.d.

Series six includes oversize items in the Casey collection. Included in this series are large newspaper clippings, posters, awards and certificates, and other miscellaneous oversize ephemera.
