

Max Boot

Award-winning author and former Editorial Editor for the Wall Street Journal. Recently completed War Made New: Technology, Warfare, and the Course of History, 1500 to Today (Gotham Books, 2006) which examines how technological revolutions have transformed warfare and the global balance of power.

Expertise

Defense policy; defense budget; proliferation; nation building and peacekeeping; democracy and human rights; U.S. grand strategy; national security; military technology; military history; U.S. foreign policy; terrorism and guerilla warfare; terrorism; media

Experience

Contributing Editor, Weekly Standard (current); Editorial Features Editor, Wall Street Journal (1997-2002); Writer and Editor, Wall Street Journal (1994-97); Writer and Editor, Christian Science Monitor (1992-94).

Honors

Named one of "the 500 most influential people in the United States in the field of foreign policy," World Affairs Councils of America (2004); Wallace M. Greene Award for best nonfiction book on the Marine Corps (2003); Savage Wars of Peace selected as one of the best books by the Los Angeles Times, Washington Post, and Christian Science Monitor (2002); two-time finalist, Gerald A. Loeb Award for Business Journalism; twice selected as one of America's thirty leading business journalists under thirty by the TGFR Newsletter.

Selected Publications

Recently completed War Made New: Technology, Warfare, and the Course of History, 1500 to Today (Gotham Books, 2006); The Savage Wars of Peace: Small Wars and the Rise of American Power (Basic Books, 2002); Out of Order: Arrogance, Corruption and Incompetence on the Bench (Basic Books, 1998); contributes regularly to the New York Times, Washington Post, Wall Street Journal, Los Angeles Times, USA Today, Financial Times, Times, Weekly Standard, and other publications.